can say there's a GOD

Anyone can say there's a God, anyone can then make up what they believe God is, and thus there are many different ideas about who and what God is and there are especially a lot of ideas about how He acts. Like WE can know God with out his help!

Isaiah 55:8, "For My thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways My ways," declares the Lord. As the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways and my thoughts than your thoughts."

Meaning we are not God and don't think like God. Thus if God doesn't tell us how He thinks, we won't know. So how can people say they know God is unjust, or mean, or so totally omnipresent that he doesn't interact or care about us, unless they are God? If hell is eternal separation from God how can people say it is unjust. They don't believe in God, so being separated from him eternally must not be a big deal.

Or if you say there's a God but believe He doesn't interact with us, then hell must not be to bad a place to be separated from Him forever, your just getting more of what you want right? And since your life right now lived without God, Jesus, and Biblical truth is so filled with meaning and purpose, and triumph over hard ships and heartache in life, and so filled with love of family and the love of friends you know you can trust your life with, that hell must sound good, it's just a continuation of what you have in this life and more!

Imagine having this life and more forever, lived without the God, Jesus, or the Bible. With none of this you don't have to worry about faith, morality, and stuff like that right?

No having to worry about doing something wrong in front of God or believing in anything crazy that requires faith like Jesus raising from the dead! Wouldn't you want this life your living now forever since it's so great?

Since you are so in control of your life and circumstances who needs God as a crutch to lean on? Since there is nothing you can't handle, why ask God for help? Since you provided all the food, clothing, and shelter you have, why thank God.

Since evolution provided the beauty and mystery of nature, the mountains, the stretches of green grass, the ocean depths, the rolling clouds, from the system that keeps a flower alive to the schools of fish in the sea the intrinsic machine that is the human body, the infinity of space, why thank God or give him any credit?

Since there's no heaven or hell, why worry about your soul, and making sure you know where your going, or believing in Jesus or any of that. Since there's no hell there's nothing you can do that would really condemn you right? Since your "basically" good it'll all work out right?

Since your pretty good and have never done anything really wrong, why ask God for forgiveness right?

Since we just die and that's it all I have to worry about is making the most of this life by making lots of money so I can be comfortable and have stuff and have fun right?

Besides we're all just mistakes produced by evolution, we're just animals that can reason is all, so why believe in God right or believe he loves us. Love is just a chemical reaction anyway right?

What happens then when something happens that scares you, upsets you, horrifies you, like your parent or close friend dying?

Your town is attacked by terrorists, you're laid off, you're failing out of school, you're addicted to drugs and are going broke, but since there's no God who do you turn to for help?

Not God surely, he either caused it or doesn't care enough to do something about it right, which leaves us right back to square one.....

who do you turn to?

Maybe other people, you find consolation in helping them.

But if there is no biblical God, why even help others if there is no purpose to life except making the most out of it while you can because your just going to die anyway and that's it.

Why even help others live this meaningless life and try to help them make money, get stuff, and be happy more often than not, so then they can die and be forgotten forever just like you? Or you turn to yourself right?

Even though you are addicted to drugs, have no money, no friends, no support, nothing to fall back on, I'm sure you have the abilities and strengths in yourself to over come this though right?

Who needs God?

Life and everything in it is utterly meaningless without the Biblical God who creates, loves and interacts with His creation, guiding and leading them into victory through hardships.

Since we CAN'T handle everything, since we AREN'T in control, we need God's help and guidance. Since we didn't provide or produce our own food, shelter, clothing.

Since nature isn't a mistake, God created the sky, tree's, mountains, valleys, clouds, sky, sea, the millions of exotic animals, and YOU and we need to recognize Him as creator and thank Him for it.

Since there is a heaven and hell, you have to worry about the state of your soul, and sinning. Since your not perfect, you do have to ask for forgiveness.

Since this world is unsure, things will happen that are horrible, we need to turn to God and look to Him for guidance, or look to nothing and decide life is meaningless and we have no purpose but to live and die and carry on the human race until it kills itself.

Is this life chance or are you a special creation of God? Do you have no purpose but to live life to the fullest by getting money and stuff then die, or did God create you for a special purpose and meaning in life, to be followed by an eternal life in heaven?

Is life meaningless chance or did God lovingly create everything we see and don't see for us to enjoy and make use of?

Is life based on an arbitrary base of morals that seem to change with the times, or is there truth?

The truth is God did create everything we see and don't see. He created the wonders of nature and the infinite galaxies and He created YOU.

He made you a special creation with a purpose, but because we aren't perfect and rebel against His truth everyday, we need to be forgiven.

Our sin and non perfect ness separates us from the God who is infinitely perfect and infinitely higher then us in thought and deed as the Isaiah verse talked about, and this separation is hell. That's what we deserve and will get if you don't find something to bring us back to God, that something is Jesus.

He bridged the gap between our separation caused by sin and God. Instead of us dying separated from God, Jesus died separated from God for us!

Then He rose again and had new life, just like we can if we ask him to come into our lives.

Just say I am a sinner separated from God. I want life to have meaning, I don't want to be chance, I want to have a purpose, I want life to be more than getting money then I die, I want to go to heaven. I believe you paid my sin on the cross and died separated from God for me so I didn't have to, and I believe you rose again from the dead so I in turn can have new life also.

Jesus YOU are the meaning of life. AMEN.
