

I know someone who likes you!

They've had their eye on you for a long time now! They can't stop talking about you They know a lot about you what you look like what you like and don't like your pet peeves

Seriously only people who really like you want to know everything about you and this guy does!

They know about your family and what ticks you off about them and what you love about them and always is willing to listen to you talk about them

You know someone likes you when they actually WANT to listen to you complain! They were so happy that time last year when you got that award

When you graduated high school believe me he was watching YOU walk down that aisle to get your diploma and he cheered although you couldn't see him or hear him When you broke up with what's his name he heard about that and was upset you were so upset Told you this guy liked you!

He told me He wanted to fill the gap that the boyfriend had left but you never asked him to He wanted to celebrate with you when you won that award and graduated when you finally got your license and your first car when you went to college and made new friends when you got good grades

Believe me he kept up with you and was so happy for you!

He told me he was really proud of you He also wanted to be with you and comfort you when all that stuff happened But you didn't really ask him or want his help Believe me this guy is head over heels with you! He so wanted to hang out with you but you never asked him to! Duh! Why not? This guy is banana's over you In fact he wouldn't brag about it but he did take the fall for you this one time You did something that really was bad and he totally took the blame for it! I'm not joking!

You never knew about this?? In fact he took the fall for a lot of things you did I guess he just likes you so much he didn't want to see you be punished ya' know? Instead of seeing YOU in pain he took the pain for you Now if that doesn't prove he really is mad about you I don't know what will Calm down I know you want his number And need less to say he's just been waiting for you to ask! You can reach him
