

Leona's Story About Her Abortion

ME. STILL ME.

When I had my abortion, I was working full time at a hospital and working in a studio apartment. My boyfriend, who later became my husband, had a very poor income; and he seemed, at that time not to have any ambition; and I was so afraid of how we would manage; and I was so ashamed that I was pregnant. Somehow, I felt an abortion would take away that shame, but instead I found that it greatly increased it!

One week later, after the abortion, I went to the doctor. I was sick with a low grade fever and I felt very weak. She walked out into the waiting room which was packed; and she pointed to me and she said, "Come in right away; you look very ill." I found out at the doctor's office that I had contracted inflammatory disease, and I was put on heavy antibiotics. After I found Jesus Christ and committed my life to Him,

Leona's Story About Her Abortion

ME. STILL ME.

When I had my abortion, I was working full time at a hospital and working in a studio apartment. My boyfriend, who later became my husband, had a very poor income; and he seemed, at that time not to have any ambition; and I was so afraid of how we would manage; and I was so ashamed that I was pregnant. Somehow, I felt an abortion would take away that shame, but instead I found that it greatly increased it!

One week later, after the abortion, I went to the doctor. I was sick with a low grade fever and I felt very weak. She walked out into the waiting room which was packed; and she pointed to me and she said, "Come in right away; you look very ill." I found out at the doctor's office that I had contracted inflammatory disease, and I was put on heavy antibiotics. After I found Jesus Christ and committed my life to Him,

Leona's Story About Her Abortion

ME. STILL ME.

When I had my abortion, I was working full time at a hospital and working in a studio apartment. My boyfriend, who later became my husband, had a very poor income; and he seemed, at that time not to have any ambition; and I was so afraid of how we would manage; and I was so ashamed that I was pregnant. Somehow, I felt an abortion would take away that shame, but instead I found that it greatly increased it!

One week later, after the abortion, I went to the doctor. I was sick with a low grade fever and I felt very weak. She walked out into the waiting room which was packed; and she pointed to me and she said, "Come in right away; you look very ill." I found out at the doctor's office that I had contracted inflammatory disease, and I was put on heavy antibiotics. After I found Jesus Christ and committed my life to Him,

I found forgiveness, but I found it hard to forgive myself and I went thru a time when I deeply grieved for my baby. The father of my baby had kept telling me not to have an abortion; and He would tell me we would be okay if I had the child. Now, I wish I would have listened! To this day I regret my abortion! I cry sometimes when I look at my three wonderful children that God mercifully allowed me to have, despite my sin.	I felt very blessed that I convinced a friend not to have an abortion; when she told me all her friends told her to have one. The man who was the father had left her. She had just graduated as a Licensed Practical Nurse, and she was still afraid that she couldn't support a child, and I encouraged her choose Life for her child. I explained how an abortion had so really changed my life and explained that it was a sin against God if she aborted her child;	and that there were other good options to choose from; like adoption. Almost two years later, she called me just out of the blue, and told me that she was so happy that she had kept her lovely daughter, and she was the joy of her life; and she thanked me for my timely, godly, advice. I hope the story of my experience will help other women choose not to abort their babies. www.tracts.com/Karin'sTractPage.html
CUT--HERE
I found forgiveness, but I found it hard to forgive myself and I went thru a time when I deeply grieved for my baby. The father of my baby had kept telling me not to have an abortion; and He would tell me we would be okay if I had the child. Now, I wish I would have listened! To this day I regret my abortion! I cry sometimes when I look at my three wonderful children that God mercifully allowed me to have, despite my sin.	I felt very blessed that I convinced a friend not to have an abortion; when she told me all her friends told her to have one. The man who was the father had left her. She had just graduated as a Licensed Practical Nurse, and she was still afraid that she couldn't support a child, and I encouraged her choose Life for her child. I explained how an abortion had so really changed my life and explained that it was a sin against God if she aborted her child;	and that there were other good options to choose from; like adoption. Almost two years later, she called me just out of the blue, and told me that she was so happy that she had kept her lovely daughter, and she was the joy of her life; and she thanked me for my timely, godly, advice. I hope the story of my experience will help other women choose not to abort their babies. www.tracts.com/Karin'sTractPage.html
CUT--HERE
I found forgiveness, but I found it hard to forgive myself and I went thru a time when I deeply grieved for my baby. The father of my baby had kept telling me not to have an abortion; and He would tell me we would be okay if I had the child. Now, I wish I would have listened! To this day I regret my abortion! I cry sometimes when I look at my three wonderful children that God mercifully allowed me to have, despite my sin.	I felt very blessed that I convinced a friend not to have an abortion; when she told me all her friends told her to have one. The man who was the father had left her. She had just graduated as a Licensed Practical Nurse, and she was still afraid that she couldn't support a child, and I encouraged her choose Life for her child. I explained how an abortion had so really changed my life and explained that it was a sin against God if she aborted her child;	and that there were other good options to choose from; like adoption. Almost two years later, she called me just out of the blue, and told me that she was so happy that she had kept her lovely daughter, and she was the joy of her life; and she thanked me for my timely, godly, advice. I hope the story of my experience will help other women choose not to abort their babies. www.tracts.com/Karin'sTractPage.html