

Manfred Beglaryan
Manfred2010@mail.ru

20.06.2011

CRISTIANITY

I don't have any religious background but that doesn't make it impossible for me to understand as to in what awful state the Christianity is at present. In the twentieth century the politicians have destroyed 180 millions of people, created several types of weapons of mass destruction and at present they started to obliterate all the mankind with the help of scientific technical progress.

They continue to develop weapons of mass destruction and genetically modified organisms, they continue to pollute the atmosphere which results in temperature rise and which, in turn, creates conditions for the occurrence of natural disasters threatening to cover even whole continents with water.

Unfortunately, the Christian clergy and its leaders do not want to notice it. They haven't even realized and they don't now that the Christian religion is to be the guiding force in the development of the human consciousness and as its result – as that of the human society - that our Lord Jesus Christ expected from us. Christianity - as it is today - is good for nothing and brings only harm.

Within two thousand years in spite of the constant increase in the number of the churches and the existence of millions of priests the Christian leaders have never been able to completely change the image of an Old Testament man and have not completed the formation of Christian moral values in human society. I do not know whether or not one can change anything by now, because humanity has come to climax of perhaps its next in turn life.

Politicians argue that there's crisis in the economy at present but in the whole world an ongoing economic recession is in process, and this, as you might imagine, is not a crisis already, it is the Apocalypse.