

The lightened lamp in the hallway

The church where Jesus Taught his servants

There is a tunnel that is leading out to a church, and this tunnel has Jesus Christ at the helm, wearing a brown sash and a robe that is milky creamy white beige robe, and brown sandals, the very punctual Jesus Christ always on time. There is a large building that is white, and it has a lot of white windows and pillars, so the windows are stained white windows with marble statues, and there are statues of all sorts of creatures and animals, and kings and queens like in Narnia.

There is a lot of time that passes by, but always mystical and like Minecraft. There is many people walking, all behind Jesus Christ wearing long robes and sandals, like the pharisees in biblical times. There are many people walking with a cane and a walking stick, and headdresses for the women, and the children have smaller outfits that fit according to their head garb. There are many plants and leaves, and foliage outside in jars and vases, and beautiful green leaves everywhere, and apple trees in the pavilion, outside the church is the Passover feast where the tables at which Jesus Christ sat with his disciples and there are wooden chairs made from the same wood as the trees, and there are cherry bushes and many foods to chose from, and this scene reminds me of Oprah's book.

There are many women being called to service, and all of them are walking with Jesus after feasting with him in the pavilion, in the square where there is a sidewalk that is round and that is where the wheels of heaven turn for a 1st time, after being taken to the 1st layer of heaven. There are many types of bread, and pretzels all being twisted into different shapes, like loaves and flatbread and cheese, and goat cheese, and whole grain bagels and loaves of wheat bread freshly made from the harvest, season by season. There is a farmland and a country like farm that has soil from the earth and a plethora of seeds to chose from, and many different vegetables, like radishes and turnips and green apples that celebrate nature in all it glories.

There are many different types of species of animals living in this Heavenly paradise, this magnificent white glass building, with a separate room set aside for just animals in the zoo. The animal are orangutangs, monkeys, chimps, sloths, dogs, and horses that live in their horse stables, like in Minecraft. There are many different types of horses all with different patterns on their mains and white and black tails. There is a barn outside that is a dark red color and is full of large storage rooms full of haylofts and water and food for the horses and chickens, and plenty of room for all the ducks in their ponds outside, and chicklings following the mother hen, and there are birds in the barn, too. There are many winged creatures with a multitude of colored feathers and features, and they all sing a different tune, just like every snowflake is a little different, and every beaver has different fur coats on for their visit to Narnia. There are large grassy hills full of the richest, dewdrop filled water, that is full of sunshine from the sun, and the garden where Jesus had the table spread out for the Passover feast, is full of gardening tools such as a rake, and a shovel, and many different hammer and toolboxes for the shed. full of horses and then the birds are of Peacock and toucans, and bluebirds full of chirping and squeaking and chittering noises. There are a variety of feathered birds' species in their cages and nesting areas for their eggs in the trees.

There are oak woods and birch and azaleas, and sunflowers and peonies and lilies, and tiger lilies, and ponds for the ducks to be fed their daily bread by the people following Jesus. There are many houses full of glass windows and bushy plants, and plenty of oatmeal laid out and peppers. There are dark wood trees and saplings around the sidewalk area where there is cement pavement and sidewalk for people to trod on and flowers accompanying the grassy hills and in this door that is white and long there is a large white building in this place where Jesus sat with his people and first began his Galilean Ministry for serving people and breaking bread with the ones you care most for, an there are bright purple robes and dark robes and yellow robes for all the servants to the teacher to wear and there is a large venue for them to pick what kinds of breads they want and fishes and oil loaves of all kinds.

There is a sunlit place where all of the greenest grass is being beautifully intermingled with sunlight and rainbow colors and tomatoes in the garden and all of them are so happy to be there with the king of kings Jesus Christ, and there's salmon and any kind of food so many wonderful Christians in fellowship together in this white building that is a church to hear lectures and listen to sermons about Jesus and where he walked and they all sit and listen as he opens up a book that has all the information in the known universe and he reads it in Hebrew and the biblical scriptures teach about moral lessons, good behavior, and how to talk to people and life lessons about truth, being kind and Christianly to others and family and persevering through times of hardship with one's family.
